Patient Rights

Access to care

Individuals shall be given impartial access to treatment or accommodations that are available or medically indicated regardless of race, creed, sex, national origin, cultural or spiritual values, disability or source of payment.

Providers of care

You have the right to know which physician or other practitioner is primarily responsible for your care. Your health care team may include other physicians, resident physicians, physician assistants, nurses, nurse practitioners, students and other health care providers.

Respect and dignity

You have the right to receive considerate, respectful care at all times and under all circumstances, with recognition of personal dignity, diversity, and religious or other spiritual preferences.

Privacy and confidentiality

You have the right, within the law, to personal and informational privacy, as demonstrated by the following rights:

- To expect that any discussion or consultation involving your care will be conducted discreetly and that individuals not directly involved in your care will not be present without permission.
- To have the medical record accessed only by individuals for legitimate business purposes and as permitted under law.
- To expect all communications and other records pertaining to care, including the source of payment, be treated as confidential.

Charges

You have the right to receive a copy of a reasonably clear and understandable itemized bill and have the charges explained upon request. You have the right to be given, upon request, full information and necessary counseling on the availability of known financial resources for your care. You have the right to receive, upon request and prior to treatment, a reasonable estimate of charges for your care.

Consent

You have the right to reasonable, informed participation in decisions involving your health care. To the degree possible, this should be based on a clear and concise explanation of your condition and planned procedures, including benefits, the possibilities of any risk, problems related to recuperation and probability of success. Before undergoing any procedure, you or your legal representative will voluntarily provide informed consent. You will be informed if medically significant alternatives for care or treatment exist.

Refusing treatment

You or your legal representative may refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law. When refusal of treatment by you or your legal representative prevents the provision of appropriate care in accordance with professional standards, our relationship with you may be terminated upon reasonable notice.

Right to Access your Medical Record

You have the right to review and receive your medical records as subject to state laws and CHCW policies.

To share concerns or suggestions

You have the right to share concerns or suggestions without fear, repercussion or discrimination.

Patient Responsibilities

Respect and consideration

You are responsible for being considerate of the rights of other patients and clinic staff. You are responsible for being respectful of the property of others and of the clinic. You understand that any abusive or disrespectful behavior could result in your dismissal from Community Health of Central Washington. This includes:

- Not using profanity or foul language
- Not smoking
- Not carrying any weapons including permitted firearms into any CHCW building
- Not acting aggressively, disruptive or threatening
- Not taking video or pictures while in any CHCW building without staff consent
- Controlling the noise level of yourself and those with you

Providing information

As a patient, you are an integral part of the healthcare team. Therefore, you are responsible for:

- Participating in your care and health care decisions
- Providing, to the best of your knowledge, accurate and complete information about present complaints, past illnesses, hospitalizations, medications, allergies and other matters relating to your health
- Reporting unexpected changes in your condition to the responsible practitioner
- Communicating whether you clearly understand your plan of care and what is expected of you

Charges

You are responsible for assuring that your financial obligations for health care received are fulfilled as promptly as possible.

Compliance

You are responsible for following the treatment plan recommended by the practitioner primarily responsible for your care. This may include following the instructions of nurses and staff as they carry out your plan of care, implement the responsible practitioner's orders and enforce applicable clinic rules and regulations. You are responsible for keeping appointments and for notifying your clinic when you are unable to do so.

No Show Policy

Dear Patient,

We would like to take a moment to welcome you to our practice. We are very pleased that you have chosen Community Health of Central Washington-Ellensburg to be your primary care provider and look forward to providing you with exceptional health care.

In an effort to maximize the time your provider spends with you and to minimize your wait time, please review the following No Show Policy:

- Our clinic requests that patients provide us with 24 hour notification if the appointment needs to be cancelled or rescheduled. With 24 hour notice, we then have enough time to schedule another patient in the appointment slot.
- Of course, we also understand that unforeseen events sometimes occur, so in emergency situations, we request at least one hour prior notification should you be unable to make your appointment.
- Should you no show for three appointments within one rolling calendar year, you will be required to call by 3pm the day before your scheduled appointments to confirm you will be here.

We value our patients and want to continue to provide you with quality care. Should you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact our office at (509) 962-1414.

Sincerely,

Community Health of Central Washington-Ellensburg
